Title: Flexible blanket retaining device with interchangeable top

Abstract:

A device for anchoring the corner of a beach blanket, towel or other ground covering to the ground. The device includes a clip for removably attaching the device to the corner of the covering, thereby enabling the corner to be anchored to the ground via a stake flexibly attached to the clip by an elastic connecting material. There is a vertical slot defined on the stake to allow for variances in the depth of ground matter, which allows the covering to remain flush to the ground independent of how far into the ground the stake is driven. Additionally, the device has a removable top piece that can be used for displaying advertising, likenesses, shapes or, sports or other paraphernalia.
